

Language Institute Chiang Mai University

Dear All,

Subject: Online Classes (effective 17 March 2020) – Nationwide

It has been announced by the Ministry of Higher Education, Science, Research and Innovation that all universities across the country must suspend all class effective 17 March 2020 and move them to an online learning platform in order to prevent the possible spread of COVID-19 (coronavirus). We have instructed your language instructors to begin implementing measures to deliver the course online through software which is familiar to them, and they will be asking for your cooperation in studying language through online delivery.

At this time, Chiang Mai University must have online learning available from 1 April 2020. Between now and the end of March, staff and teachers will be training in the use of online software (namely through Zoom), however whilst staff and teachers are being trained, we would seek your cooperation in being able to learn through other software which may include: LINE, Skype, WebEx Cisco, Facebook Live and other means.

We will continue to update you further should the government announce that universities may resume face-2-face delivery of classes in the future when the situation has improved.

Thank you for your understanding on this above matter.

Yours Truly,

Professor Sompong Witayasakpan, Ph.D

Director
